I do not see the big deal in releasing the traffic and weather reports. For many people satellite radio is common and more effective than the same top 40 songs on regular radio. Also the reception never mess up. So all your favorite songs and informative programs can be heard even at work. Now if this invention can help the common man and also be at a reasonable price why complain. Not everyone has one and some people believe it or not prefer regular radio vs. the satellite. But for those of us who have satellite will we have to suffer missing the weather and traffic reports due to paying for our service?
